Dear Jim & Vickie,

The weather has turned quite warm since you left, - although I suppose not hot by your standards - is in the mid 80's. I have been keeping our fan on all night so I can get to sleep.

Mom & Dad came over the other night after mom picked Dad up from work. He works only a ^{few} ~~couple~~ block away, so they stopped for a drink in order to miss the rush hour traffic. They ended up staying for dinner, and afterwards we played 3-handed bridge, as Mike had to go out. It was hard getting

Wad away from the Judiciary hearings, which were being televised then.

I went to my doctor's appointment today, and he showed me where the baby's head is and had me feel it. I imagine the baby didn't appreciate that too much, though. My weight is just right according to my doctor, although I feel just huge. I've become so accustomed to being big that I can't remember ever feeling thin.

Did you have fun with your friend on the way home? It is fun now, though, getting your house all arranged. Since you invited all the relatives back - I hope they don't all come at once. LOVE, MARY
